

THE COLONNADE

Vol. 48, No. 2
October 6, 1972

Georgia College At Milledgeville
AT MILLEDGEVILLE, GEORGIA 31061

LIBRARY
GEORGIA COLLEGE

Farrante & Teicher Community Chorus To Emory Prof To Perform At GC Organize For Season To Speak

The Milledgeville Community Concert Association will present the first concert of the 1972-73 season on Thursday, October 5. The duo pianists FERRANTE AND TEICHER will perform at 8 p.m. in Russell Auditorium on the Georgia College campus.

Active in every area of the entertainment world, Ferrante and Teicher have scored rousing successes in concert halls throughout the United States, Canada and Europe. Their sought-after appearances have been the cause of more SRO signs posted outside of auditoriums that practically any other show attraction touring today.

Their fans all over the country are legion and as a result their bookings generally run two to three years in advance. We are most fortunate to have them appear in Milledgeville at this time. The team plays some 125 dates annually covering over 200,000 air miles. This takes ten months every season and does not include special appearances with large symphony orchestras around the United States. At tour's end, the remainder of the year is spent composing, arranging and recording albums for United Artists. What little time this leaves is used to put together a brand new show for their next tour season and to fulfill guest appearances on the major network television shows.

Their superb artistry is much in evidence on recordings. They have sold over twenty million records to date, combining their singles and albums. Never before has a two piano team achieved such distinction in this area. Their first big hit was "Theme From the Apartment," followed by many others including "Exodus," "West Side Story," "My Fair Lady" and "Midnight Cowboy," which not only sold millions and has become their musical identity, but also earned for them the coveted title of "The Movie Theme Team". Since then the two piano team has added innumerable successes to their recording catalogue.

In "Strike Up The Grands" of Ferrante and Teicher the brilliant pianists will once again display their spectacular piano pyrotechnics, along with their delightful wit, to present a unique and thrilling evening of music and laughter that will long remain a high spot of any concert season.

The Baldwin County Community Chorus will begin rehearsals Tuesday (Oct. 10) for a February concert at which the group will perform Johannes Brahms, "A German Requiem."

Martin Bittick, director of choral activities at Georgia College, will direct the chorus, which will be organizing for the second year.

The choral group, which will meet each Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Porter Fine Arts Auditorium on the Georgia College campus, is open to anyone interested in performing the Brahms requiem. No audition is required for membership, and prospective members need not be residents of Baldwin County.

"A German Requiem" will be presented Feb. 7 on the GC campus with the full orchestra from the college.

Dr. A.E. Wilhelmi, professor of biochemistry at Emory University, will speak at Georgia College on Thursday, Oct. 12, at 7 p.m. His topic will be "The Comparative Biochemistry of Anterior Pituitary Growth Hormone".

The Emory professor will speak in Herty Hall and his lecture is open to the public.

Colonials To Open Season October 5th

The Colonials of Georgia College will open the school's fifth soccer season on Thursday (Oct. 5) meeting the Eagles of Toccoa Falls Institute at Toccoa.

The Eagles have played four times this fall, losing only once, that time to Tennessee Temple College of Chattanooga.

Last year, the Colonials had a 5-6-1 record. In 1971, the Eagles finished with six wins and seven losses.

Georgia College will play its first home match on Saturday (Oct. 7) at the athletic complex on Rt. 49, two miles west of Milledgeville, against Covenant College of Lookout Mountain, Tenn.

New coach of the Colonials this year is Bill Fogarty, a GC graduate and former soccer player, who returns this year to his alma mater after a year of graduate study at the University of Georgia.

After graduation from GC and before embarking on his masters program, Fogarty coached and taught at the Deerfield School in Albany.

Chess Club To Form

An organizational meeting to form a chess club at Georgia College will be held in the Maxwell College Union at 4 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 5.

The club will be open to anyone regardless of playing ability.

The GC club will become the nucleus of a community chess club and those in the community interested in attending the Thursday meeting are invited to do so.

Pi Beta Alpha Rush

Pi Beta Alpha announces the start of its fall rush season. Sign up at either of the two tables that will be set up near the College Union starting on Monday, Oct. 9, through Friday Oct. 13. Brothers will be at the tables to give you any information that you need.

THE COLONNADE Is The Forum For Students Opinion! ALL Letters Are Welcome!

Send Comments To
BOX 1524

Action Line

Dear Action Line,

What is the story on no bells being rung for classes? It is all too easy to be late for a class when a teacher decides to lecture beyond the dismissal time.

J.M.

J.M.,

There appears to be a number of reasons for the lack of bells ringing. First of all bells obviously cost money. There was one attempt at ringing the college carrillon to signal the beginning and the end of classes but that idea was abandoned for a number of reasons. Secondly, many students, members of the administration, and faculty members simply just do not want a bell system. Chappell Hall and Herty Hall have their own separate bell system but neither of these two work on the same system. Finally, in order to get a successful bell system it would mean having to buy a uniform bell system for the entire school and illuminating all these secondary bell systems. So if you are interested in getting a bell system you may get a petition of students who want a bell system and present it to the administration for consideration.

Mike

Dear Action Line,

I would like to know why there are no paper towels in Napier Dorm?

A.M.

Dear A.M.

There is no word on paper towels in Napier Hall but Mrs. Adams is working on it. Be patient!!

Mike

Dear Action Line,

Why is it "illegal" to play cards on the second level of Maxwell when card playing is not depriving someone of table space upon which to eat?

Q.J.

Dear Q.J.,

I spoke with Miss Donehoo and Mr. Wood and was told the dining hall is a place to eat and for that reason it is necessary to keep it clean. There are places provided on the lower level to play cards in order to keep the upper level clean for eating purposes it is necessary to confine card playing to the lower level.

Mike

Dear Action Line,

Why can't chairs and-or tables be placed on the porch outside the cafeteria? I've heard that cafeteria officials want to do this but that other college officials claim they'll be stolen. Wouldn't that be a bit impossible considering the location of the porch?

E.H.

Dear E.H.,

In speaking with Mr. Wood, I found out that not only has the idea been considered but that as soon as funds are available they plan to do just that. Everyone from Dean Littleton on down seemed to think this was a great idea so just be patient it is coming.

I would like to extend my thanks this week to all the people who took time to help answer these questions. In particular Mr. Wood, Miss Donehoo, Mrs. Adams, Dr. Jones, and especially Dean Littleton for taking time out from his busy day to be a big help in answering these questions.

I would also like to thank the students who contributed questions and urge each and every one to contribute questions each week. It really looks like we have a successful column.

Address your questions to:

Mike Williams
Box 2110

Attention
Fish
Are Still Biting!

BILL FERRELL-EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

ROBERT RIDDLE-ASSOCIATE EDITOR

MARK ROE-BUSINESS MANAGER

Editorial

VOTE!

by Bill Ferrell

Well, here it is—only a month or so away from the BIG election. This may be one of the most important elections in years, because it appears there is a difference in the candidates running for the presidential office. (Remember though, once in office, a president often changes his policy.) Voting is seen as the most legitimate means of affecting governmental decisions by, quite naturally, those in power. So at least if you vote

(even if your candidate loses), your protesting voice may at least hold credence in the eyes of those you may "protest" against. I suppose there is something to the slogan "if you don't vote, don't holler."

Voting registration is fairly easy—at least in my home county. I assume it is so in most others, Baldwin included. Register and vote! It may not change the world, but it's a first step!

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

In the three years I have been at Georgia College, I have seen a lot of changes occur. Enrollment has increased; it has become a coed school in fact as well as name. What hasn't changed—and shows no sign of change in the near future—is the treatment of the women students on this campus.

I think we are in agreement that the purpose of a college education for a woman is the same as that for a man. Few colleges now teach the fine "arts" of flower arranging and serving tea. We are no longer southern belles, but women who expect to enter a world of business in some respect. Why then is it so difficult for this institution to rid itself of the ridiculous rules and regulations that apply to the women students but not the men? Why are we still under the controls of the era of GSCW instead of a more liberal attitude that certainly should be a part of the "changing" Georgia College?

Why should the women who live in the dorms have a curfew imposed upon them? Any act that can be committed after 1:00 can certainly be carried out before that hour. At the University of Georgia, only first quarter freshman women have a curfew, and whether you can believe it or not, we are in the same university system. Just who or what are we being "protected" from? It is ridiculous for a 20 year old woman to be treated like a child. Any one who is responsible enough to remain in college can certainly regulate their hours to fit their study needs—and can you guarantee that she will study when you bring her in at 11:00?

Another need that has been met at Georgia and not here is the dispensing of birth control pills by the infirmary. Perhaps the administration is not aware of it, but many of the women at Georgia College—a fair estimate would be about half, probably more—visit the local gynecologist for this purpose. You might say that it would not look good for the college to "condone" premarital sex, but you might stop to consider that when the students are forced to visit an outside doctor for this purpose—something they will continue to do even if nothing is done on the campus—the whole community knows that Georgia College girls are on the "pill." Why not keep the information within the college family? Why not have someone a frightened pregnant girl can talk to about her problem and what she wants to do about it? Why not have a sociology or psychology professor to whom she can talk without his lecturing her on her lack of morals—one who will tell her her choices, and help her in any way possible whether it is telling her parents or giving her the number of an agency who will send her to New York for an abortion. It is her right to choose whatever action she will take.

Another area that needs reform is the open dorm policy. Why not have open dorm daily between certain prescribed hours? It has been done on other campuses with no ill effects. Those sisters who prefer those of our sex to men are allowed to share the same room and those of us who prefer the company of men are denied even a few hours daily. Few people are indiscreet enough to commit that unmentionable act in the limited privacy of a dorm room when a roommate can walk in at any minute.

I do not feel that I speak for myself alone but for a sizable number of women on this campus. To those who protest these reforms, I say fine. If they do not wish to take advantage of the freedom that is their right. It is also my right to ask for change in an area where it is desired by so many others.

The days of knights are long gone; you can not fight for my innocence nor protect my honor. My mind is my own and so is my body. Why so surprised? Do you really expect to open and develop my mind by a college education and then have me retire discreetly to my kitchen? You can not free my mind and have me meekly accept the restrictions you impose upon my behavior. I did not come here for your protection—I came here to learn what you have to teach me.

MS. Lea

Napier:

PRO & CON

By "Quill" Jones

This summer one of Georgia College's long cherished dreams became a reality. Napier Hall, the first co-ed dorm in the history of the college was opened for occupancy. This was quite a change, considering that less than a decade ago this was an all female campus. It is visible proof that the college is becoming more progressive.

Also, considering the condition of some of the older dorms (despite their tradition and outward beauty) this building was desirably needed. Now at least four hundred students have a clean, new dorm to live in. Those who endured Terrell last year will, no doubt, be especially grateful for Napier.

Napier has many attractive features. For instance, the formal polar is large, graceful, and well suited for campus activities. The furniture is comfortable as well as beautiful, and built for endurance. The commons area, especially the recreation rooms, are a miracle. At last students have a large space and the facilities to play ping pong, cards, and study together. To add to these attractions there are three well stocked vending machines. Things will be even better when and if a cigarette machine is installed.

But as every rose has a thorn, so Napier has its cons as well as its pros. One very real problem is that there is simply not enough washing and drying machines for the number of people living there. Luckily, this is a problem that can be reminded later. Unfortunately, the other thorn is in the side is here to stay.

The problem is the rooms that four hundred students are to call home. Each one is exactly like the other, and thus provides the occupants very little opportunity to express their individuality. In addition to this, there is not enough light in the rooms. The furniture is too clunky for the size of the room and looks terribly out of keeping with the rest of the dorm. It is almost inconceivable that a dormitory as modern and expensive as Napier would provide a dinky little wardrobe instead of building in closets. There are no bookshelves provided, and if a student wishes to bring along his personal library, he'd better bring along his personal library—bookcases as well. In room arrangement Adams, Wells, Sanford, and every other dorm on campus is far superior to Napier.

But faults notwithstanding, Napier is open for business. And at least the college is blessed with one more dorm that is not crumbling and cracking, is relatively bug free, and is air conditioned. A blessing it must be admitted, it is, but what a more bountiful blessing it could have been if just a little more planning had been done.

Fish Tales

This Week The Fin Affair

by Williams and Ferrell

Once upon a time a young lady and her boy friend were loitering beside a stream. The RED SNIPER (known for his glib tongue and peculiar coloration) happened to be slithering downstream.

The SNIDE SNIPER relishing in any obscurities he could pick up, prodded the young lady about her dress. (He had remarked earlier that her dress had been inappropriate according to his strict moral beliefs.)

Girl: Well, are my clothes appropriate?

RED SNIPER: Let your boyfriend say it.

The RED SNIPER made a menacing motion with his fin. Girl: Go ahead! Do it! Hit me!

RED SNIPER: You're ugly! You have no taste! You look like TRASH!

The RED SNIPER turned sideways, fin still raised menacingly.

Girl struck out in self-defense and indignance FEARING FOR HER VERY SAFETY!!

The RED SNIPER grew fingers and grabbed and twisted the girl's arm savagely, trying to drag her into his hatchery. A passing fishing widow and her daughters pulled the SNIPER from his grasp. The girl's right arm emanated a REDDISH glow similar to the REDDISH coloration around the upper region of the SNIPER's body. The widow slung the fish back into the sewer from whence he came, saying she would handle the matter in detail.

The girl was taken to the local village doctor and did receive medication.

THE STORY IS TRUE—THE NAMES HAVE BEEN CHANGED TO PROTECT THE INNOCENT!!!!

MS. Lea

GC Soccer Schedule

Toccoa Falls	Oct. 5	Away
Covenant	Oct. 7	Home
Tennessee Temple	Oct. 9	Home
Mercer	Oct. 11	Home
North Georgia	Oct. 14	Away
Georgia State	Oct. 21	Home
Berry	Oct. 24	Away
Athens	Oct. 28	Home
Emory	Oct. 30	Home
Georgia Tech	Nov. 2	Home
Rollins	Nov. 7	Away
Mercer	Nov. 10	Away

Staff Box

Editor-In-Chief
Associate Editor
Business Manager
News Editor
Layout Editor

Bill Ferrell
Robert Riddle
Mark Roe
Paula Rhodes
Ellen Hutchinson

Vicki Dyer, Tim Walker, Tom Thrasher, Frank Hill, Ruth Tamplin, Pam Malcom, Greg Duckworth, Mike Williams, Kitty McClure, Brett Hette, Bruce Tamplin, Walter Young, Jacqueline Jones, Diane Driggers.

The Other Half

Band Friday and Saturday

$1.50 Cover Charge

Featuring —

"They can play great dancin' music and sing real good too!"

.....The Great Speckled Bird.

Coming
October 19

Tickets on Sale Mon - Fri.
at Checkout Desk
in College Union.
STUDENTS - $1.50
GUESTS - $3.00

featuring

Brownsville Station ★ ★ ★ and
Vince Vance and the Valiants

Kernaghan's
Registered Jewelers
Member American Gem Society

Phone 452-5509 - Hatcher Square
Milledgeville, Georgia 31061

Specialized in Jewelry for Students

● pierced earrings

● engravings

● precious stone rings

Student's personal checks honored against purchase

OPEN: Tuesday & Thursday and Friday Nights till 9 p.m.

CGA Announcement

The following is presently before faculty-council for approval. Next Tuesday it will be put up before you (the students) at the Senate Elections for your reactions:

Whereas, there is no definite statement in the Board of Regents policies concerning the use or possession of alcoholic beverages on college property or at college sponsored events, the Executive Council of the Georgia College Government Association is requesting a rule change in the Student Code.

Whereas, the Georgia College Government Association feels that many students do approve of such a rules change and there are provisions in the changes to protect the rights of those who do not engage in the use of alcoholic beverages, we, the Executive Council of the Georgia College Government Association, strongly support such action.

Whereas Section A, Article 2 of the Code Governing Student Rights, Responsibilities and Discipline at Georgia College states, "The possession or consumption of alcoholic beverages on college property or at events sponsored or supervised by the college is prohibited," we the Executive Council are requesting that the above mentioned article be changed to read as follows:

ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES

A. Possession and consumption of alcoholic beverages by any student under the age of eighteen (18) is strictly prohibited.

B. Any purchase and sale of alcoholic beverages on college property is prohibited.

C. Possession and consumption of alcoholic beverages in private living quarters is not prohibited, provided that each participant is at least eighteen (18) years of age.

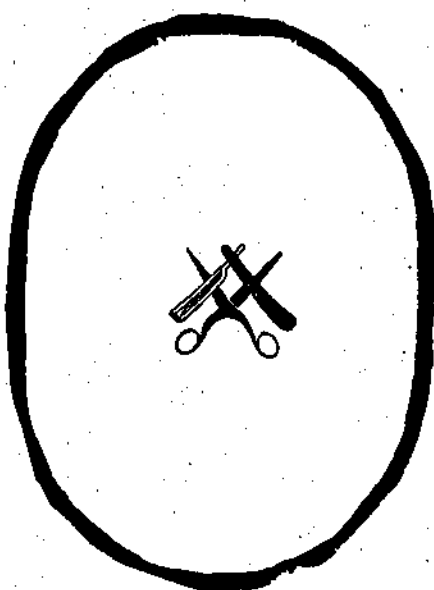

D. Consumption or display of alcoholic beverages is strictly prohibited in non-private areas of residence halls such as lobbies, recreation areas, lounges, or baths.

E. Consumption or display of alcoholic beverages is strictly prohibited in any academic buildings.

F. Consumption or display of alcoholic beverages is strictly prohibited in the College Union Building except in cases of social events in which the membership of that organization does not prohibit the use of alcoholic beverages.

G. Alcoholic beverages may be prohibited from any college sponsored event by a statement from the membership of the organization.

Continued on Page 4

Charles Hartley
Danny Allen

Man's World Barber Salon

Custom Styles
Hair Pieces & Wigs
Conditioning

Featuring: Custom Cuts
Razor Color
Straightening
Geometric Shags

452-4725 - Hatcher Square - Milledgeville

AGAPE Sponsors CSH Activities

The members of Agape would like to welcome you, the student, to come and be with us as we begin another year of service to Georgia College.

We hold regular meetings each Monday afternoon at 5:00 p.m. in the College Government Association office in the Maxwell College Union and everyone is welcome to come and be a part of us.

To fill you in on the happenings of the last couple of weeks Philos, who are sophomore representatives, were active in assisting new students as well as working with Agape on the contemporary worship service on Sunday night September 17. The name Philos comes from a Greek word Philo meaning brotherly love. Agape is a Greek word for unselfish, complete, out-shining love.

Some of our present activities include "The Heavenly Daze", which is our coffee house located on the second floor in Mayfair Hall. Our grand opening was Sunday September 24. We were entertained by Tim Walker and Frank Hill who did a superb job. Approximately 60-65 students were present and had a great time sharing with each other.

The "Heavenly Daze" will be open this quarter at the regular hours of Wednesday 7:00 p.m. till 11:00 p.m. and Sunday 7:00 p.m. till ----.

One of the most prize projects Agape sponsors is in relation to volunteer work at Central State Hospital. We can always use some more volunteers so any students who want to give a little and receive a lot should take special note of the following activities.

Adolescent library open 2 nights a week by Georgia College Students. October 12 from 1:30 to 3:30 Georgia College volunteers will accompany children to Baldwin County State Fair. We need as many volunteers for this as possible. Plans for a

Continued From Page 3

CGA Announcement

H. Transportation of alcoholic beverages to and from private living quarters or other college functions must be in a concealed manner such as in a bag or other non-transparent container.

I. The rights of those students who do not engage in the drinking of alcoholic beverages are protected from infringement or violation by those students who do engage in the drinking of alcoholic beverages. Such violations of rights is strictly prohibited.

J. Misbehavior resulting from the overconsumption of alcoholic beverages is prohibited. Any drunken misbehavior will be considered conduct unbecoming a Georgia College student by Honor Council.

Submitted by: Gaie Stanford,
Bert Brown, Carol Payne, Rita Losets, Linda F. Keene.

Halloween carnival are presently being discussed.

Individual counseling in Children and Adolescence units is another area. Volunteers to work in the token store in the Children and Adolescence Building.

If you are interested in working in any of these programs you may contact Peggy Harris Community Coordinator of Agape Box 1898

Programs are set up according to the individual volunteer's schedule so I'm sure many of you can find a little spare time to work with this worthy cause.

Mike Williams

The Value Of The GC Identification Card

Many people do not realize the potential value of their I.D. card. Many students think that the I.D. card is an idealized picture with a signature that proves "they are, who they are." They also think that the I.D. card is a "symbol of membership" to Georgia College. These people are right. The I.D. card is purposeful for the above reasons, but those reasons are not the only ones.

Georgia College sponsors many extra-curricular activities. These activities are generally free, but, occasionally there is a very small admission fee. The only requirement for admission is the small fee and the I.D. card. Well, you know that you are a G.C. student with every right to attend the activity, but the ticket man at the gate does not know this fact. To be on the safe side, you must present your I.D. Card to the man.

Almost any special activity in the College Union will require your I.D. card. If you play ping-pong or pool, you must present your I.D., along with a small fee, at the information desk. In return you are given permission to play these games. There are other activities within the College Union that will require your I.D. card.

One of the main purposes of the I.D. card is for the cafeteria. You must have your I.D. card handy with your meal ticket when going through the lunch line. This requirement prevents anyone else from using your meal ticket.

In many P.E. courses, you will find that your I.D. card is necessary to check out college athletic equipment at the "Cage" in the P.E. building. You will need your I.D. card to get in a G.C. Colonials basketball, soccer, and baseball game. The I.D. card is a necessity at any college sponsored dance, concert, and movie. Many music and art series shows and exhibitions will require an I.D. card for your admittance.

All of the activities at G.C. are for the benefit and progress of the student. Please carry your I.D. card to any college activity for your own benefit.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

Please forward the following letter through your journalistic media to the character on campus known as Catfish (whether this ridiculous nickname was given to him because of similar appearances, odor or possibly I.Q., I do not know.) I find the disgusting physical and vocal abuse perpetrated by you upon the person of Lynn Thompson at Bell dorm on the eve of Oct 4, 1972 to be of the lowest and vile of any acts I have had the displeasure of hearing in quite a while. I am quite confused as to why you feel divinely inspired to comment on the social and moral conduct of the student body of this institution. I find myself to be quite pleased that she had the womanly nerve to give you a very well deserved punch in the face. I think however, that Lynn exhibited much composure and mercy towards you for aiming at your face rather than other vital areas.

I am appalled that you who seems to attempt to fool the students of G.C. into thinking that you are a good and upstanding christian, would have the gall to judge anyone on this campus. Perhaps you may think yourself an expert on fashion trends and socially acceptable behavior. I do hate to disillusion you, but apparently you haven't looked in a mirror recently and it's quite obvious that you have not been versed formally or otherwise in the finer points of social grace.

To further my argument pertaining to your repugnant behavior, let us go to the Bible. I'm sure you, of anyone, being the pious soul you are, read your book quite often and are quite familiar with the quotation "judge not lest ye be judged." Surely you would not go against the hard core religious training of which you are such a fine example.

You had best take heed Mr. Catfish (for lack of a legal name) the fact that the women of this school and the men too, will not tolerate anymore actions of this sort, nor will they allow people of your obvious low breeding to continue attempts at intimidation.

If you have any questions as to my meaning or my intentions or even an explanation of my letter, please feel free to contact me. I will be delighted to discuss the matter in my terms or yours.

Most sincerely,
Mrs. Vicki Fincher Dyer

Literary Section

As I stare into the mirror
I wonder who is watching with me.
Could they see all that I see,
The things reflected back to me?
The mirror is gilded with gold and silver sconces,
a very attractive setting for such a person to gaze into and back out.
Who is doing the real appraising,
Those who look inside or those who gaze from within?
Many things are gold and silver;
Even my razor has a silver blade.
But the silver gilding does not change
the way I lik, the way I seem.
If I could understand the principles of reflection....
Or should I take the silver blade and forget about this looking?

Kitty

14,00 foot candles
on a winter's day.
At twelve noon
I shut my eyes.
The snow feel lightly
clinging to my clothes.
In front of me passes scenes
of India, China,
Brazil, and Santiba.
12,000 foot candles
on a summer's day.
At twelve noon
I shut my eyes.
The rain fell gently
(a mid-day mystical mist.)
In front of me passed scenes
of home on a winter's day.
I opened my eyes,
it was six p.m.,
twelve years later.
Kitty

Male or Female
HAIRCUTS - CHEAP
WILL TRIM OR CUT
(ESPECIALLY SHAGS)

CONTACT:
Patricia Estill
111B Napier Hall

Attention

If you have any materials to submit to the literary page, please contact Kitty McGrarity or address them to her at Box 1066 and drop them in the Student Mail Slot.